EXTREMADURA, A PARADISE FOR BIRDS AND FOR THOSE WHO LOVE NATURE

Regardless of whether one is in the countryside or a town, Extremadura is considered one of the best places in Europe for birding. And not only in the spring, but throughout the year, making it quite different from other destinations.

There is no shortage of evidence for this: 74.1% of Extremadura is included in the inventory of Important Bird Areas, which is exceptionally high for both Spain and Europe. An impressive 369 species of birds (resident, summer and winter visitors) have been recorded. There are other 50 protected areas, including Monfragüe, the Tajo International and the Sierra de San Pedro, key refuges for the conservation of some of the most threatened species on the continent, like the Spanish Imperial Eagle, Black Stork, Egyptian Vulture and Black Vulture. And there are more than 70 Special Protection Areas for birds (SPA), of which 23 are located in urban areas such as Cáceres, Trujillo, Plasencia, the Badajoz dam, Almendralejo, Zafra and Jerez de los Caballeros.

With these natural resources, Extremadura has specialised in receiving and offering services to both national and international tourists who are interested in birds, insects and plants, not forgetting the opportunities for them to enjoy other attractions such as the culture, heritage and gastronomy.

Accommodation, professional guides, activity holiday companies, travel agencies, interpretation centres and tourist offices in the region have come together in the Birding in Extremadura Club, a pioneering initiative in Spain and an example of collaboration between the public and private sectors that seeks to promote birding tourism and offers quality services to the client.

If you love nature, Extremadura is a paradise for you.

More than 20 years ago, chance brought us to this little corner of Extremadura, secluded, hidden, but well-connected. Thus the rural tourism centre, integrated with nature was born, which you can enjoy today. Feeling the biodiversity of our gardens is the best reflection of our project: from wild orchids, a multitude of birds that visit us and share our habitat: Iberian Magpies, Hoopoes, Golden Orioles, Bee-eaters, Little and Scops Owls... That is our success.

02 El Peñón Hide for carrion-feeders (Open all year)

The El Peñón Hide is special for its scenery, the backgrounds, because we place the bait in order to make photos with a difference, looking for the best photos of carrion-feeding birds, rather than simple assemblages of them.

It is located in Santiago del Campo, in a livestock region, so that carrion-feeders are abundant in the area, arriving quickly to feed and within the right distances for different focal lengths.

03 Hide Nigra, Black Stork

A very exclusive hide, probably unique in Spain.

The hide is located on private property at a small wetland where storks, herons and other water birds gather to feed.

The chance of seeing Black Stork is 95% and it is easy to photograph White Stork, Grey Heron, Kingfisher, sandpipers etc.

Entry to the hide is at dawn. The departure will be agreed with hidephotextremadura staff (up to 14:00) and only when accompanied by personnel.

DESCRIPTION

Company created in 2016, born from our passion to share the natural wonders of Extremadura. To promote sustainable tourism, part of the annual income is donated to local groups and associations that are dedicated to protecting fauna. It is also important to us to offer quality tourism, so that all of our guides speak English and Spanish, and that the accommodation and restaurants used by our clients clearly represent the cultural and gastronomic richness that we have in Extremadura.

At the same time, we like to demonstrate an ethical code to our photographers, where the welfare of the species and care of the natural place that we are visiting come first and the quality of the photo second.

Finally we stress that we work with small groups which allows us to focus on the needs of each photographer and to help them improve their technique and knowledge, enabling them to become great professionals.

SERVICES

- 01 Organised nature photography tours. Hiking trails for photography and birdwatching.
- 02 Tours include visits to local photography hides. Workshops on the theory and practice of photography.

CULTURA PASTORIL CASA PINOTES

DESCRIPTION

Casa Pinotes reopened its doors as an interpretation centre on the life of shepherds and the Soriana Occidental drovers' trail as part of the network of interpretation centres across Cáceres.

The centre occupies an old shepherds' house, beside the drovers' trail, which as a result of the building of a reservoir to provide the town's drinking water, was left without land. The restoration was carried out to respect the original construction and an upper-storey terrace was built to serve as a birding viewpoint, as the area holds a great variety of species and is a good place, above all, to become introduced to birdwatching.

The person who works in the centre, as well as being able to explain the ethnographic content of the centre, will be able to guide those who are interested in the area and help with bird watching from the viewpoint, especially for groups of children or beginners, given that she knows the area very well; as well as being able to provide advice on other nearby places for birding.

SERVICES

- 01 We are designing short guided trails for bird watching in the area. We have a room available for exhibitions, workshops and lectures.
- 02 The centre has optical equipment available for use by visitors. The centre has staff knowledgeable about birds.
- 03 The observation point in the centre is open to visitors. A good place for bird photography.

TOURIST OFFICE CÁCERES PROVINCE

DESCRIPTION

We are based in the Carvajal Palace in the heart of the monumental city of Cáceres. It is a 15th century building of great interest for the visitor, not just because of its own history and those who have lived there, but also being one of the most visited buildings in the historic centre of the city. Since a few months ago, we have also been able to offer guided visits each Thursday to parts of the palace not normally open to the public, such as the library, meeting room, bedroom and tower.... Without doubt, the garden of the palace as well as its round tower, the chapel with 16th century frescoes and the model of the city are perhaps the most popular attractions for our visitors. At the same time, you will be surprised to find works of art that are stored in the upper part of the building on behalf of the Prado Museum.

SERVICES

- 01 Tourist information for the whole of the province of Cáceres. Material to help the visitor: guidebooks, leaflets, maps....
